NEWMAN BROOD TRAVELS INCOG TO PUBLIC CRIB

Three Sons of School Trustee Work for Board of Education Under Other Names.

UNDER INVESTIGATION BY FINANCE COMMITTEE

THRIFTY PROCLIVITIES SHOWN BY SOME OF THE OTHER MEMBERS.

Four of the sons of William J. Newman, the veteran member of the board of education from the Third ward, worked for the board during the last year on a number of buildings, doing various odd jobs of carpenter work. The checks in payment for their services were made out under fictitious names, with the exception of the amounts to one of the boys, who signed his own name to the pay-

The matter has been under investiga The matter has been under investiga-tion by some of the members of the board for some time. It was taken up by the finance committee of the board this week, with the result that some changes will be recommended in the system under which men who work on the buildings are paid.

This has left a good deal to the superintendent of buildings, who has in turn to depend on the vouchers handed him by

Who Is David Crockett?

The Newman matter came to the surface through the unusual name of David Crockett appearing on the payrolls. Investigated, this turned out to be David Crockett Newman. This wearer of the name of the great frontiersman explained that he had entered himself under that name because of an unjust execution out-standing against him. Later it was found that Theodore Newman had also worked under an assumed name. Shortly after the two turned in their vouchers in the name of Newman Brothers, and the money was drawn by Theodore, against whom there was no judgment. Last summer Arthur Newman was put to work by the foreman on one of the buildings under foreman on one of the buildings under an assumed name. Arthur is about 21 years of agc. He also stated that he gave a different name because of an unjust judgment, like his brother, David Crockett. The only one who used his own name was Edgar, a youth of 19 or 20, who came looking for a job and was employed as a laborer.

It is estimated that the amounts drawn by the Newman boys will aggregate be-by the Newman boys will aggregate be-tween $800 and $1,000. There has been no question that they did the work and that Arnold G. Giauque, member from the Second ward, is chairman of the buildings and grounds committee of the board. Mr. Glauque last evening said he did not know very much about the boys, but he understood that they had been working under names that did not belong to them and that this was done because of executions against them.

Bridwell's Statement.

The superintendent of buildings is G. M. Bridwell, and it is Mr. Bridwell whom some of the members of the board are disposed to call to account for putting the men to work under such circumstances or allowing them to continue when he had discovered it. This is how Mr. Bridwell explains it all:

"In the summer of 1907 David Crocket Newman and Theodore Newman were given work by my foreman, E. H. Evans. They worked peculiarly and under more than one name. My attention was not called to the fact until I found the name of 'David Crockett' among the youchers. of 'David Crockett' among the vouchers. After this name had appeared a month or so I made inquiries. I found that this was David Crockett Newman. He told me that there was an unjust debt hanging over his head and that his creditor would garnishee his wages. I remonstrated with him and told him that I didn't object to the work but that he didn't object to the work, but that he should use his own name. On the next payroll the voucher was for Newman Prothers, and Theodore drew the money. This happened several times. Then other names were used and I finally told them. I would rather not have them work for the board. Early last summer Arthur Newman was put at work by the fore-man under an assumed name on account of another unjust execution. Later Edgaasked for a job and got work under his own name.

"I remonstrated with them and finally to get them away from the work for the board I gave the older boys jobs on my own house. At no time did W. J. Newman of the board recommend to me that his sors be so employed." his sons be so employed."
Mr. Bridwell admitted, however, that Mr. Newman had spoken to him about giving his sons work.

Newman Is Insistent.

Mr. Newman, it is said, has been insistent in this matter of getting work for his sons from the school board. In fact, the Newman boys have been something of a thorn in the sides of other members of the board, who recognize that there should be some observance of the there should be some observance of the

The members of the board have been exceeding loth to take the matter up. Mr. Newman was sensitive on the subject of his sons and peace at any price has always been the board motto. It was not until the matter became glaring that the finance committee was forced to investigate.

to investigate.

The committee, according to some of the members, found that the board had lost nothing; that the work was done, and the only question was the propriety of so many of one family working for the board. The manner in which they drew their pay also came in for condemnation. Still the committee decided that they would not bring the matter to minthey would not bring the matter to pub-lic notice by any report to the board be-yond a recommendation that the system of payments be changed.

What a dreary Dundreary it would be without a splendid comedian in the title role and without the support of a strong company! And what a delightful evencompany! And what a delightful even-ing's entertainment it is with both of these!

E. H. Sothern opened his engagement at the Salt Lake theatre last evening in "Lord Dundreary," the role which gave fame to his father. Undoubtedly one of the reasons why Mr. Sothern decided to revive this old piece was to demonstrate his wersatility. For what greater contrast in character could there be between the sombre and tragic Hamlet and the cheerful idiot portrayed last evening? As to the merits of Mr. Sothern's Hamlet Salt Lakers will have a chance to judge tomorrow evening. Dundreary is the first straight comedy role he has played for many years, and the verdict of the big and dressy audience last evening was that Sothern even for the solution of the star, the filest bit of characterization was that of Malcolm Bradley in the part of Abel Murcott. Mr. Bradley is one of the stand-byes of the Sothern organization, and a character actor whose merit has been tested by the years. His picturing of the sot of a lawyer's clerk, who is nevertheless full of sentiment and loyalty, called forth hearty applause from the audience. Few men can portray inebriety on the stage without arousing laughter, and that Mr. Bradley avoided this is a tribute to his art.

The quiet initial canvass for financial assistance which is being conducted by the directors of the Y. M. C.
